(A rather comprehensive biography with numerous links to other websites. This one mentions more than I have covered about his comic book career.)

War: Past, Present & Future:

<http://warpastpresentfuture.blogspot.com/2012/12/war-at-sea-pearl-harbor-day-of-infamy.html> (An early story by Sam in Charlton Comics' War at Sea #26 [July 1958])

The Fanboy Factor <http://fanboyfactor.com/2018/03/its-alive-to-publish-combat-by-sam-glanzman-with-braun-heath-simonson/> (News about a Kickstarter project to republish three issues of Dell's 1960s Combat series: D-Day, Midway, and Dunkirk, all originally illustrated by Sam Glanzman.)

For reproductions of several first-run issues of Dell's Combat, go to Comic Book+. Below are six examples to look at and read every page!

1. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=65926> (Dell COMBAT #1: "Get the Bismarck!!")
2. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=65923> (Dell COMBAT #2: "Pearl Harbor")
3. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=38720> (Dell COMBAT #3: "Bataan")
4. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=33689> (Dell COMBAT #4: "PT COMBAT" [Pt 109])
5. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=33709> (Dell COMBAT #5: [The Desert Fox])
6. <http://comicbookplus.com/?dlid=33710> (Dell COMBAT #6: "Raid on Regensburg" [USAAF Bombers])

NOTE: Subsequent issues can be accessed by going to the current issue's title bar above the front cover and clicking on the small down arrow (▼), then click on the issue number you wish to see. You can also click on either "Prev" or

"Next" beside the hand on either end of the title bar ( Prev  Next).

4CS: FOUR-COLOR SHADOWS

<http://fourcolorshadows.blogspot.com/2016/12/pearl-harbor-sam-glanzman-1961.html> (Another reproduction of Dell's COMBAT "Pearl Harbor" story.)

The Silver Age Sage

<http://www.wtv-zone.com/silverager/interviews/glanzman.shtml> (2009 interview with SJG)

USS Stevens, DD-479 <http://www.uss-stevens-dd479.us/> (Website devoted to the Stevens' complete history. The left-hand column on the home page contains several points of interest about the ship. Turn on the sound and listen to excerpts from the soundtrack to the 1950s NBC series Victory at Sea!)

NavSource Naval History <http://www.navsource.org/archives/05/479.htm> (Another website about the U.S.S. Stevens with dozens of vintage photographs of the ship from 1941-1946.)

Sam Glanzman's U. S. S. Stevens: The Stories

<http://www.oocities.org/ussstevens/list.htm> (Complete list of all U.S.S. Stevens stories up through 2002.)

Pappy's Golden Age Comics Blogzine

<https://pappysgoldenage.blogspot.com/2014/03/number-1550-monarch-of-monster-isle.html> (Entire first issue of KONA: MONARCH OF MONSTER ISLE, Dell Four Color #1256)

U. S. Naval Institute <https://www.usni.org/magazines/navalhistory/2016-04/sailors-story-revisited> (An overview of Sam Glanzman's naval and comic book careers with perceptive comments about his keen abilities as writer and illustrator of A Sailor's Story.)

There are many, many other websites that pay respects to Sam Glanzman as well as sites with fans' comments. Browse for them at your leisure and enjoy reading any complete stories that you find! Anchors aweigh!
